ABSTRAK

Kajian ini bertujuan untuk menentukan faktor dan faktor stres dominan di antara para pekerja hotel di daerah Lembah Klang. Tiga hotel di daerah Lembah Klang yang dipilih secara rawak adalah dari Swiss Garden Hotel and Residences Kuala Lumpur, The Royale Bintang Hotel Kuala Lumpur, and Concorde Hotel Kuala Lumpur. Setiap hotel ini terdiri daripada 4 bintang hotel. 120 perkerja di gunakan untuk kajian hanya 95 pekerja dari hotel-hotel yang dipilih akan menyertai dalam kajian. Borang soal selidik digunakan untuk menentukan latar belakang sosial-demografi, maklumat kerja dan faktor stres. Terdapat tiga penemuan hipotesis dalam kajian ini hipotesis1: Pekerja yang berkerja 46 jam atau lebih dalam seminggu akan mengalami tekanan stres berbanding dengan perkerja yang berkerja kurang dari 46 jam seminggu. Hipotesis2: Pekerja wanita akan mengalami tekanan stres yang tinggi berbanding pekerja lelaki and Hipotesis 3: Pekerja yang lama dalam perhidmatan akan mengalami kurang tekanan stres berbanding mereka yang baru berkhidmat. Factor utama bagi tekanan stres bagi pekerja sector hotel ialah binaan ijam bekerja. Kalian ini membuat kesimplan bahawa bilangan jam berkerja

ABSTRACT

This study seeks to determine the effect of occupational stress, gender, and working hour on productivity among employees in hotel industries around Lembah Klang District. The three hotels that have been chosen to be survey are Swiss Garden Hotel and Residences Kuala Lumpur, The Royale Bintang Hotel Kuala Lumpur, and Concorde Hotel Kuala Lumpur. Each Hotel is known with 4 stars Hotels. There where 120 questionnaires have been distributed but only 95 questionnaires can be uses in this survey due to some were not fully answered. The questionnaire was used to determine socio-demographic background, working information and stress factors. There were three finding/ hypothesis need to be search which is on Hypothesis 1: Those individuals that work 46 hours or more per week will have significantly higher occupational stress than those that work less than 46 hours per week. Hypothesis 2: Women will have significantly higher levels of occupational stress than men and Hypothesis 3: Long service staff tends to experience less number of occupational stress compared to short/new serving staff.

The most dominant factors of occupational stress among Hotels employees are hours of work. It shows that hours of works is the main factor in causing occupational stress among the Hotel employees
