ABSTRACT

The purpose of this quantitative study was to examine the influence of leadership style and organizational citizenship behaviour (OCB) on organizational behaviour. This study arises from the need to know the factors that can increase the organizational performance in the MOBAILI telecommunication company which located in Saudi Arabia. It is argued in this thesis that very limited number of studies have been conducted on the relationship between leadership style and OCB in the perspective of developing countries in general, so this study aimed at investigating whether leadership style and OCB have a positive impact on organizational performance in one of telecommunication company called MOBAILI located in Saudi Arabia. To this end, 86 respondents working in MOBAILI telecommunication company located in Saudi Arabia were selected to participate in the study. Organizational performance was measured by the 10-item developed by Steele (1987). Leadership style was measured by the 20-items and OCB was measured by 12-items developed by Podsakoff and Mackenzie (as cited in Niehoff & Moorman, 1993). The instruments for in this study were measured by using the 5-item questionnaire.

The findings revealed that leadership style and organizational citizenship behaviour (OCB) were statistically and significantly related to organizational performance. OCB was found to be the best predictor of organizational performance. The limitations of this study and the recommendations for future research are also discussed.

Keywords: leadership style, transformational leadership, transactional leadership, organizational citizen ship behavior, Mobaili telecommunication company.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

All praise and gratitude be given to Allah the Almighty for giving me such a great strength, patience, courage, and ability to complete this project.

Although any learning activity is a lonely personal project, it requires help, support and encouragement of others to be successful. Just as an eagle could not soar without the invisible strength of the wind, I could not have arrived at this place without all the invisible hands that provided me that strength. I would like to present my humble appreciation and gratefulness to all the people who made this journey possible. I am in debt to those who knowingly and unknowingly were so helpful and important in the difficult moments.

Firstly, my deepest appreciation goes to Mr. ABDUL MANAF BOHARI who has provided unlimited amount of encouragement and professional support. He valued my commitment to self and lifelong learning and all the while supporting my professional endeavors. Thank you, Mr. ABDUL MANAF BOHARI, for your always-positive attitude and outlook; you are an incredible supervisor and an outstanding leader.

Secondly, to Prof. Madya Dr. Ismail bin Lebai Othman, who has provided his expertise, knowledge, support, and coaching during the class that I took with him. The highest compliment I can say to a lecturer like you is: I have learned from you.
Thirdly, to Dr. Faridahwati, who has provided her expertise, knowledge, support, and coaching. You are so kind, thank you.

I wish to thank several individuals ABDULRAHMAN ALFAQIH, HAMDAN ALSHAMI who have provided expertise, encouragement, and assistance in the accomplishment of this educational endeavor. When I say I couldn’t have done it without their help, I am not simply passing on a trite compliment; I mean it!

I will not forget to thank Dr. Norsiah Bt Mat, Dr. Norazuwa Bt Mat, Prof. Madya Dr. Ismail bin Lebai Othman, Munauwar bin Mustafa, Mumtaj Bt Hassan and Dr. Mohammad Yazam, for proof reading assignments, talking out ideas, providing technical and psychological assistance, and for guiding and supporting my efforts to succeed in this program.

Above all I would like to express my gratitude to my parents, brothers and sisters for their endless love and warm support that they have given me all throughout of my life. They are the heroes for their psychological and economical support.

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Over the last 25 years there has been great empirical and theoretical studies conducted on organizational performance. This study has required to better recognizing the processes, antecedents, and emergent states that facilitate effective organizational outcomes. An emerging area within this study is the role attributed to leadership in facilitating organizational performance development.

The influence of leadership styles on organizational performance has been an issue of interest among practitioners and academics researches in the area of leadership (Giambatista, R.C. 2004; Cannella Jr., A.A. and Rowe, W.G..1995). possibly the most important reason for this interest is the common belief that leadership can impact positively on the performance of organizations (Rowe, W.G..2005). The style of leadership adopted is considered by some researchers (e.g. Awamleh, 1999; Conger, 1999; Dubinsky, 1995; Yammarino, 1993) to be mainly important in accomplish organizational goals, and in evoking performance between subordinates (Barling, J., Weber, T. and Kelloway, E.K. 1996; Berson, Y., Shamair, B., Avolio, B.J. and Popper, M. 2001; Zacharatos, A., Barling, J. and Kelloway, E.K 2000).
