ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to examine and gain a better understanding of the drivers that influence the employee engagement in Farley Sibu Sdn. Bhd. 107 employees of Farley Sibu Sdn. Bhd. were participated in this study. Data were gathered through questionnaire analyzed by using Statistical Package for Social Science (SPSS) version 17. Throughout the statistical analysis – correlation analysis, it is found that there is a significant relationship between the three independent variables namely transformational leadership, career development and organization culture with the dependent variables – employee engagement. Among all three independent variable, transformational leadership is found to be the most important drivers in influencing the employee engagement in Farley Sibu Sdn. Bhd. Based on these findings, recommendations and suggestions were made to the management Farley Sibu Sdn. Bhd.

Key words: Employee Engagement, Transformational Leadership, Career Opportunities, Organization Culture
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It can be said that no one completes a project paper alone, and for me this could not be a more true statement. First, I owe special gratitude to Dr. Norazuwa Mat, my supervisor. Her guidance, mentorship, and belief in this project paper were critical to its completion. There is no doubt, her dedication to service is unparalleled and unmatched. Thank you for your assistance, teaching, and reading as well as for the many comments you provided over the past few months. Without you, this project may have never gotten off the ground.

Additionally, I would like to acknowledge support from all the employees of Farley Sibu Sdn Bhd toward the completion of this research project.

To my family who always believed in me, especially to my mom and dad who shaped a young girl character at an early age. Your unwavering love for me is a cornerstone for the girl you see today. Thank you for always encouraging my curiosity. My sisters: Rosamond, JoJo, Naruto and Mickey were always with me, encouraging me to take it one step at a time, believing that I could do my research project. Their love and support are the most important elements of my life.

Finally, I thank my Buddha for giving me health, strength and perseverance to continue and finish my research project.

CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background of the study

Globalization has changed the business industry and society. Competition has raised high and the organizations are racing in the marketplace to increase its profit. In order to survive in the globalized world, global leader has built various strategies to compete in the marketplace. The strategies adopted are not only focused on increasing sales or service but are also related to retaining talented who have high performance and high competence in workplace (Berger & Berger 2004). Employee engagement has emerged as a critical driver of business success in today's competitive marketplace. Employee engagement is defined as the extent that an employee believes in the mission, purpose, and values of an organization. It demonstrates commitment through their actions as employees and their attitude towards the employer and customers (Stockley, 2007).

The field of employee engagement is important to highlight because it is a dominant source of competitive advantage and thus able to solve challenging organizational problems such as increase organization performance and productivity. Research has suggesting that organization with high levels of employee engagement report positive organizational outcomes (Kular, Gatenby, Ress, Soanneet & Truss, 2008; Harter, Schmidt & Keyes, 2003; Shuck & Wollard, 2010).
