ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, my praise to Allah S.W.T whose blessing and guidance have helped me to complete my dissertation. Peace be upon our Prophet Mohamrnad S.A.W. who has given light to mankind. I hereby want to thank my supervisor, Dr. Fais Bin Ahmad, for his invaluable advice, constant guidance, great patience, understanding, insight, knowledge, attention, kindness and encouragement throughout my study in Universiti Utara Malaysia.

My highest and most sincere appreciation goes to my beloved father for providing, supporting, and advising me with great patience and attention in everything that I had done to complete not only this thesis but also my master program. Without this kind gesture probably I would not have been satisfied with myself as I am now. I will always be very grateful to my brother, Wail Alhusaini, who have always encouraged and guided me to be independent and reached the highest peak of my aspirations. I would like to express my high appreciation to my friends who help me in every step in my thesis.

Finally, I wish to take this opportunity to express my deepest thanks to my family for the love and never-ending support they have extended me in every step in my life.

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Introduction

In this age of rapidly changing business environment, leadership is more important than ever. The present organizational focus on revitalizing and transforming organizations to meet competitive challenges ahead which has been accompanied by increasing interest among researchers in studying transformational and transactional leadership. Such leadership behaviors are necessary for quickly identifying new market opportunities and for developing appropriate competencies within organizations. Over the last two decades, considerable literature has accumulated on transformational leadership and transactional leadership (Bass, 1998). There exists a relationship between transformational leadership behaviors and various outcomes measured at the individual and organizational level (Krishnan, 2005). Drawing on Burns’ theoretical ideas, Bass (1985) developed a model of transformational leadership which conceptualized transactional and transformational forms as separate but interdependent dimensions.
