THE EFFECT OF USING AUTHENTIC MATERIALS ON THE SPOKEN USE OF ENGLISH VERB TENSES FOR ENGLISH AS A FOREIGN LANGUAGE AMONG ARAB SECONDARY SCHOOL STUDENTS IN MALAYSIA

AMEER K. RASHEED

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
UNIVERSITI UTARA MALAYSIA
2014
Permission to Use

In presenting this thesis in fulfilment of the requirements for a postgraduate degree from Universiti Utara Malaysia, I agree that the University Library may make it freely available for inspection. I further agree that permission for the copying of this thesis in any manner, in whole or in part, for scholarly purpose may be granted by my supervisor(s) or, in their absence, by the Dean of Awang Had Salleh Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. It is understood that any copying or publication or use of this thesis or parts thereof for financial gain shall not be allowed without my written permission. It is also understood that due recognition shall be given to me and to Universiti Utara Malaysia for any scholarly use which may be made of any material from my thesis.

Requests for permission to copy or to make other use of materials in this thesis, in whole or in part, should be addressed to:

Dean of Awang Had Salleh Graduate School of Arts and Sciences
UUM College of Arts and Sciences
Universiti Utara Malaysia
06010 UUM Sintok
Abstrak

Kata kunci: Bahantulen, Pengajaran tatabahasa, Sistem kala, Bahasa Inggeris sebagai bahasa asing, Kuasi eksperimen
Abstract

Many Arab learners in Malaysia, who are learning English as a foreign language (EFL), are struggling to use English language proficiently in conversations. The methodology used by the teachers is largely traditional in nature and they still use grammar translation method. This method failed to produce proficient Arabic learners in English, especially in speaking. Although some studies have been conducted on the use of authentic materials in teaching English to EFL learners, there is lack of research on the effects of using authentic materials among Arab EFL learners. Therefore, the present study aimed to examine the effect of using authentic materials on the spoken use of English verb tenses among Arab international secondary school students in Malaysia. The study also examined the ways native Arab speakers learn EFL, and the perceptions of Arab students and EFL teachers on the use of authentic materials. The present study adopted a quasi-experimental design in which the control group which consisted of 25 students was taught using the conventional method while the experimental group of 35 students was taught English using authentic materials. The four types of authentic materials that were used are films, videos, newspapers and photos during 18 hours of experimental teaching. A speaking pre-test, a post-test and structured interviews were conducted with both groups. The data were analysed quantitatively using two non-parametric tests, which are the Wilcoxon Signed-Rank test for checking whether the data samples were matched and the Mann-Whitney test for comparing any significant difference of the means of the post-test of both groups. Findings revealed that the majority of the Arab EFL learners, who learnt English at the international secondary school, learnt English through memorization. The teachers believed that authentic materials could help the students practice English in real life and the students were motivated in learning English. The findings showed that the experimental group performed better than the control group in using tenses in the post-test. It is concluded that the authentic materials could provide stimulating, and enriching learning experience among Arab EFL learners. The study contributed to the use of authentic materials particularly for grammar teaching in an EFL context. The EFL teachers would be able to facilitate EFL learners by improving their pedagogy in terms of creating more interesting, stimulating, interactive and engaging language learning activities.

Keywords: Authentic materials, Grammar teaching, Verb tenses, English as a foreign language, Quasi experiment
Acknowledgements

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my mentor and meticulous supervisors, Dr Siti Jamila Bidin and Dr Chua Choon Mooi, for their advice, encouragement and invaluable comments throughout the research process. Their guidance has had a profound and essential influence on this work. I shall remain forever indebted to them. I have enjoyed our discussions and this learning experience. I believe I am a different person academically from when I first met them.

I would like to dedicate this piece of work to my whole family. My final word of gratitude is due to my late wife who, as usual, put up with me patiently, unremittingly and silently throughout my hard times. I am truly indebted to her.
Table of Contents

Permission to Use......................................................................................... ii
Abstrak ................................................................................................. iii
Abstract ................................................................................................. iv
Acknowledgement................................................................................... v
Table of Contents ................................................................................... vi
List of Tables......................................................................................... vii
List of Figures......................................................................................... vii
List of Appendices.................................................................................... vii

CHAPTER ONE - INTRODUCTION.....................................................1

1.0 Introduction ....................................................................................... 1
1.1 Background to the Study .................................................................. 2
1.2 Education in Iraq ............................................................................. 2
  1.2.1 The Status of English in Education in Iraq .................................. 3
1.2.2 English Language Teaching in Malaysia for Iraq Students ............. 4
1.3 Syllabuses and Materials .................................................................. 8
1.4 General Problems of Arab Learners ................................................... 10
1.5 Problem Statement .......................................................................... 11
1.6 Research Objectives .......................................................................... 14
1.7 Research Questions ........................................................................... 15
1.8 Hypotheses ....................................................................................... 15
1.9 Significance of the Study .................................................................. 16
1.10 Scope of the Study ........................................................................... 17
1.11 Definitions of Terms ........................................................................ 18
1.12 Overview of the thesis ..................................................................... 19

CHAPTER TWO - LITERATURE REVIEW.......................................22

2.0 Introduction ....................................................................................... 22
2.1 Grammar Teaching ........................................................................... 22
  2.2 Natural Approach ........................................................................... 24
2.3 Authentic Materials ......................................................................... 25
  2.3.1 The Use of Authentic Materials ................................................... 26
  2.3.2 The Use of Authentic Materials and Constructivist Theory .......... 27

vi
CHAPTER FOUR - FINDINGS ................................................................. 118
4.0 Introduction .................................................................................. 115
4.1 General Findings .......................................................................... 115
4.1.1 Research Question One .......................................................... 118
4.2 Research Question Two ............................................................... 117
4.3 Research Question Three ............................................................ 119
4.4 Class Observation .......................................................................... 124
4.5 Summary the Findings Related to the Use of Authentic Materials .. 126
4.6 Conclusion ..................................................................................... 127

CHAPTER FIVE - SUMMARY, DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS ...... 128
5.0 Introduction .................................................................................. 128
5.1 Overview of the Study .................................................................. 128
5.2 Difficulties of Iraqis in Learning English ...................................... 135
5.3 Authentic Materials and Tense Usage in Speaking ...................... 136
5.4 Authentic Materials Improved Speaking Performance ............... 137
5.5 Findings ....................................................................................... 138
5.6 The Effects of Authentic Materials on Tense Usage ..................... 140
5.7 Strengths of the Study .................................................................. 141
5.8 Limitations of the Study ............................................................... 142
5.9 Future Research ........................................................................... 143
5.10 Conclusion .................................................................................. 143
References ......................................................................................... 145
Appendices ......................................................................................... 159
List of Tables

Table 2.1 Arabic Tenses .................................................................................................37
Table 2.2 Summary of Previous Study .................................................................58
Table 3.1 Distribution of the Research Population .........................................91
Table 3.2 Scales of Pilot Study .............................................................................96
Table 3.3 Lessons of the EG and CG .................................................................99
Table 4.1 Nonparametric Test to Compare Pre-test EG and Post-test Results for EG .................................................................221
Table 4.2 Wilcoxon Signed-Rank Test for Experimental Group ................121
Table 4.3 Mann-Whitney Test to Compare Post-test Means of EG and CG ......122
Table 4.4 Difference between Post-tests of CG and EG .................................125
Table 4.5 Nonparametric Test to Compare Pre-test and Post-test Results for CG .......................................................................................123
Table 4.6 Wilson Signed-Rank Test Group for Control Group for CG ......................124
List of Figures

Figure. 3.1 Research Design ...........................................................................................88
List of Appendices

Appendix A Oral Test ................................................................. 159
Appendix B Interviews with Arab Students ................................ 164
Appendix C Rubric for Assessing Oral Interaction ...................... 167
Appendix D Interviews with Students ......................................... 168
Appendix E Analysis of the Data on the Experimental Group ........ 169
Appendix F Data Analysis of Control Group ............................... 170

Appendix G-a Evaluation Scores of Speaking Pre-Test for the Control Group ........................................... 172
Appendix G-b Evaluation Scores of Speaking Post-Test for the Control Group ........................................... 174
Appendix G-c Evaluation Scores of Speaking Pre-test for the Experimental Group ...................................... 176
Appendix G-d Evaluation Scores of Speaking Post-test for the EG ................................................................. 178
Appendix H-a Raw Scores of Speaking Test of the EG .................. 180
Appendix H-b Raw Scores of Speaking Test of the CG .................... 182
Appendix I Lesson Plan for Experimental Group .......................... 184
Appendix I-a Lesson One ............................................................. 187
Appendix I-b Lesson Two ............................................................ 191
Appendix I-c Lesson Three .......................................................... 194
Appendix I-d Lesson Four ............................................................ 197
Appendix I-e Lesson Five .............................................................. 198
Appendix I-f Lesson Six ............................................................... 200
Appendix I-g Lesson Seven .......................................................... 202
Appendix I-h Lesson Eight ......................................................... 205
Appendix J Mean Analysis of Experimental Group ....................... 207
Appendix K Mean Analysis of Control Group ............................... 208
Appendix L Nonparametric Test of CG ........................................ 209
Appendix M Nonparametric Test of EG ........................................ 210
Appendix N Comparison between Post-test of EG and CG .................. 211
Appendix O Mean Analysis of Control Group ............................... 212
Appendix P Nonparametric Tests (Wilcoxon Signed Rank Test) of Pre-test and Post-test of CG ......................... 215
Appendix Q Nonparametric Tests (Related Samples) of EG ............ 216
Appendix R Mann-Whitney Test of Comparison between Post-test of EG and CG ........................................... 217
Appendix S Teacher’s Interview ................................................... 218
Appendix T Student Interview ..................................................... 219
CHAPTER ONE
INTRODUCTION

1.0 Introduction

Authentic materials are used increasingly and rapidly in language teaching in recent years in terms of speaking process. Harmer (2001, p.10) points out that authentic materials are real texts used by native speakers, and have been designed for the speaker of the language. Another grammarian, Celce-Murcia (1996, p. 2), suggests that the use of authentic materials has been shown to result in better interest among students to learn and understand grammar compared to solely relying on books, and classified authentic materials as those materials are not used for the purposes of language learning. Herron and Seay (1991) claim that more exposure to authentic materials improves effectively the teaching of the language and results in better performance in English. Ur (1984) argues that exposure to authentic speech affects second language students to learn best that which has been planned, taking to improve students’ ability in speaking. The use of videos, films, songs and newspapers will enhance learners ‘ability in the target language. Herron and Seay (1991, p. 8) explain that using these materials will involve students in real life. They have to communicate by using various types of authentic materials in the language classroom such as songs, news and weather reports. Moody (1984) highlights that training in the implementation of speaking can be done in a language classroom by teachers who have a wide range of knowledge in using authentic materials.
The contents of the thesis is for internal user only
References

----------,(2000). ‘Listening for real in the foreign Language Classroom’.

Foreign Language Annals, 22, pp. 543-551.

----------------------(2004).

