ABSTRACT

In view of the pressing demands to converge with IFRS as the international accounting benchmark and to serve as common global accounting language, coupled with the concerns expressed by critics over its uniform suitability and relevance in diverse economic, political and institutional settings across the globe, it is increasingly significant to empirically investigate; the quality, acceptability and enforceability of the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) in countries of different settings. Therefore, this study investigates the perception of financial reporting users and preparers on global accounting convergence in terms of IFRS quality, IFRS acceptability and IFRS enforceability in Nigeria. Data was collected using online and self-administered survey approach. Based on the empirical findings, it was concluded that despite the possible issues and challenges associated with convergence to IFRS, it could yet be considered as a right step, in a right direction and at a right time for Nigeria. Convergence to IFRS is in the best interest of the country in order to tap its full economic potential and her deserving leadership within the global financial market. It has been proven that convergence to IFRS has positive impact to the country’s reporting system with improvement in reporting quality leading to reduction in income smoothing, and increased in value relevance of reported income.

Keywords: International Financial Reporting Standards, convergence, quality, acceptability, enforceability.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, all praises and glorifications are due to Allah, the Lord of the universe, for the gift of life, health and endurance to carry out this research work. May the peace and blessing of Allah be upon all his noble messengers and in particular on the last of them all- Prophet Muhammad (S.A.W).

Gratitude to Him for the strength and endurance provided to me to complete this research work. Indeed, pursuing M.Sc. (International Accounting) degree generally and this thesis specifically is no doubt a challenging and an enduring journey that I will cherish all my life.

My profound gratitude goes to all those who contributed in one way or the other to make this research work a success.

Firstly, my heartfelt and sincere appreciation goes to my supervisor, Dr. Siti Zabedah Bt Hj Saidin for her earnest guidance and advice as well as her tolerance and diligence throughout this research work. Without her understanding, consideration and untiring advice, this thesis would not have been completed successfully. May Allah bless you and your family and make Aljannah your final abode.

Secondly, I would like to express my deepest appreciation to my good loving parents – Alhaji Maikudi Mohammed Danrimi and Hajiya Binta Maikudi Danrimi for their unending moral and financial support as well as their continuous prayers throughout my program, thank you very much, may Allah almighty bless you abundantly and make Al-jannat your final abode.

Special thanks to all my lecturers and friends at home and in Malaysia, thanks for your support and encouragement, I am really indebted to you all.

CHAPTER ONE
INTRODUCTION

This chapter tries to explain the general overview of the whole work, and it is arranged as follows: background of the study, problem statement, research questions and objectives, significance of the study, scope and limitations as well as organization of the study.

1.1 Background of the Study

The globalization of financial markets, the interconnectivity of the global economies, and how no country can declare self-reliance on its activities without depending on another country have intensified the clamour to develop a common language in accounting reporting, so that stakeholders within and outside the country can fully understand what the contents of financial reports depict. Considering the old maxim "accounting is the language of business", then enterprises around the globe cannot afford to be speaking in different languages while communicating the financial information of their activities to one another. Thus, a uniform set of accounting standards is needed to enhance the understandability and comparability of the firms' financial reporting across the world (Ojeka & Dickson, 2011).

IFRS are designed as a common global language for the company's activities in order to improve the quality, understandability and comparability of financial reporting across international boundaries. The standards are meant to attain three fold objectives. Firstly, to help in standardizing the diverse accounting policies prevailing around the globe and remove the incomparability of financial statements within and across entities. Secondly, they facilitate the presentation of high quality, transparent and comparable information in financial statements. Thirdly, they reduce the
