Abstract

The purpose of this study is to estimate the effects continuation of LL (lifelong learning), expected benefits of LL, and priority of LL, on the LL participant's perception of the role of government, employer, university, family, and self in promoting LL and also the access, quality and cost of LL. A cross-section data were collected from the Universiti Utara Malaysia MBA programme's adult learners through self-administered questionnaires. Descriptive statistics and correlation analysis was used to examine the relationship between the perceptions of LL and continuation, expectation and priority of LL. In addition, the multiple regression models are used to estimate the effects of the continuation of LL, expected benefits of LL, and priority of LL, on the LL participant's perceptions of LL. Results of descriptive and correlation shows there is a positive relationship between the perception of LL and the continuation of education, expectation and priority of LL. Nevertheless, results of multiple regression models, after controlling the influence of socio-demographic variables, it is only the continuation of LL has positive and significant effect on almost all the perceptions except the role government and employer; whereas, the priority of LL has only a positive effect on the perception of government. On the other hand, expected benefit of LL has no significant effects on all the perceptions. Policy implications, discussions and recommendations have been discussed in enhancing government's role in promoting LL in Malaysia.
ABSTRAK

Tujuan kajian ini adalah untuk menganggar kesan sambungan LL (pembelajaran sepanjang hayat), faedah yang dijangka daripada LL, dan keutamaan LL, ke atas persepsi peserta LL mengenai peranan kerajaan, majikan, universiti, keluarga, dan diri sendiri dalam mempromosikan LL dan juga akses, kualiti dan kos LL. Data keratan rentas telah dikumpulkan daripada pelajar dewasa program MBA, Universiti Utara Malaysia, melalui soal selidik yang diuruskan sendiri. Statistik deskriptif dan analisis korelasi digunakan untuk memeriksa hubungan di antara persepsi LL dan sambungan, jangkaan dan keutamaan LL. Di samping itu, model regresi berganda digunakan untuk menganggar kesan sambungan LL, jangkaan manfaat LL dan keutamaan LL ke atas persepsi peserta LL. Hasil dapatan korelasi dan deskriptif menunjukkan bahawa terdapat hubungan positif antara persepsi LL dan sambungan, jangkaan dan keutamaan LL. Walau bagaimanapun, hasil dapatan model regresi berganda, selepas mengawal pengaruh pemboleh ubah sosio-demografi, hanya sambungan LL mempunyai kesan positif dan signifikan terhadap hampir kesemua persepsi kecuali peranan kerajaan dan majikan; manakala, keutamaan LL hanya mempunyai kesan positif ke atas persepsi peranan kerajaan. Sebaliknya, faedah yang dijangka daripada LL tidak mempunyai kesan yang signifikan ke atas kesemua persepsi. Implikasi dasar, perbincangan dan cadangan dalam meningkatkan peranan kerajaan dalam mempromosikan LL di Malaysia turut dibincangkan.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The completion of this master dissertation would not have been possible without the help and support of many people who have contributed to it in one way or another. Firstly, I must thank Associate Professor Dr Lim Hock Em, my supervisor for his patience, guidance and advice throughout my master study. Always prompt in responding to my emails and ready to offer insightful comments, you are indeed a role model and mentor. I have also benefited from the scholarship of the other lecturers who taught me other economics courses.

My heartfelt thanks go to Associate Professor Dr Thi Lip Sam for sacrificing his precious time to review my draft. My thanks also go to my best friend Ma Hong Wei, for helping me with my English during my revision. Sheryl and Fairus, I am glad to have peers like you with whom I can discuss and seek solace when feeling discouraged. Madam Rafidah, thank you for your listening when I feel upset.

Finally, without the support and encouragement of my family members I would not have been able to complete my study. My mother, who is an illiterate, but she has done everything she can to support me during my study time. My father, his always-calm—style always give me invisible encouragement and spiritual strength.

My brother Ma Ming has been supportive in finance and in every way throughout my years in Malaysia.

INTRODUCTION

1.0 Introduction:

This chapter starts with a brief introduction to the definition of Lifelong learning, and followed by problem statement of the study. Based on the problem statement, the research questions and objectives are identified. Finally, the research significance, limitation and the organization are briefly discussed.

1.1 Background of the Study

In the process of internationalization, modernization and increasing aging population, skills and knowledge have become more and more important in determining individual's capability to get a job, gain an employment, promotion and mobility in the labor market (Thi 2012)

There is a general agreement that in the new era of rapid development of knowledge and technology, individuals, institutions and communities need to learn on a continuous pace in this modern age, hence generating a growing demand for lifelong learning (LL) education.

Delors (1996) had categorized lifelong education into four fundamentals of learning namely; learning to know, learning to do, learning to live together and learning to be. These fundamentals
