The findings also revealed that there are four determinants that significantly influence towards retirement planning. Among them are goal clarity, knowledge of financial planning for retirement planning, income and gender, the result on gender shows that the male respondents have higher retirement planning compare to females.

CHAPTER ONE

1.1 Introduction

This chapter covers and outlines the research plan. It designates the bases of the research. The chapter provides a clear picture on background of the research, problem statement, research objectives, and research questions, significant of the study, scope of the study and organization of the study.

1.2 Background of the study

Retirement has been considered one of the main important future life changes (Szinovacz 1980) and permanent stage that can be enjoyable experience for some and still shocking others (Marshall 2004). Particularly, retirement is a self-defined idea that can mean different things to different individuals. In other words, retirement may also be reducing the number of working hours from fulltime status, whereas others it may mean working on unpaid basis (Marshall 2004). According to Richardson (1999), retirement means stopping from paid and unpaid workplace activity. This may mean that the salary of individuals will stop directly due to retirement though their living expenditures will last and they will need continue their lives rely merely on their accumulated savings. As the key source of income is saving (Russell & Stramoski, 2011), appropriate preparation during pre-retirement planning stage is important for a protected retirement life.
