ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to analyze factors that influence student's behavior towards online shopping. Students are one of the target markets towards the online retailer as they have money and interest. Most of these students are not working and most of them are provided with the educational loans. However, there are circumstances that they should not involve in online shopping due to many invalid transaction such fraud and theft. This could cause them of the financial loss. There are two theories that used in this study which are TechnologyAcceptance Model and Theory of Planning Behavior. The independent variables suggests by the researcher in this study is ease of use, perceived usefulness, brand orientation and website design. To investigate these hypotheses, 350 questionnaires distributed among the undergraduate students of School of Business Management. Finally regression analysis was used on data in order to test hypothesizes of study. This study can be considered as an applied research from purpose perspective and descriptive survey with regard to the nature and method (type of correlation). The study identified that all the independent variables are correlate with the dependent variable.

Keywords: online shopping, behavior, ease of use, perceived usefulness, brand orientation, website design, undergraduate students.

Kata Kunci: membeli belah, tingkah laku, kemudahan penggunaan, kemudahan dilihat, orientasi jenama, reka bentuk laman web, pelajar ijazah sarjana muda.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Bismillahirahmanirrahim.

I am thankful to the Almighty with His Grace I managed to finish my research and would like to acknowledge the help of many people who involved during this research. I would like to thank to my supervisor, Dr. Khairol Anuar bin Ishak for his unwavering support and steady guidance. He is giving a lot of direction and motivation to me during the research. I also would express my gratitude to my friends for their assistance and encouragement.

This research could not have happened without the support of undergraduate students in Universiti Utara Malaysia who lend their time to answer my questionnaire and some of them are willingly to help me distribute it.

Finally, I would like to express my special thanks to my beloved family for their wonderful and moral support during this research.

CHAPTER 1
INTRODUCTION

1.0 Introduction

E-Commerce and e-shopping create opportunities for businesses to reach consumers globally and directly—indeed, they are transforming retailing (Alden et al. 2006; Hoft et al. 2004). Malaysia also involve in e-commerce transactions which are growing, not least because low cost gives both businesses and consumers a new and powerful channel for information and communication. According to Griffith (2006), there are many study conducted on cross-national and cross cultural internet marketing. This shows that the e retailing businesses are growing day by day.

This study examines the factors that influence university students’ behavior towards online shopping. The researcher suggests four factors that affect university students’ behavior which are ease of use, usefulness, brand orientation and website design. These days, consumers are exposed towards various online and offline options, without a compelling reason to choose one retailer over another, they just rotate purchases among multiple firms. The increasing numbers in population of gen-Y are also boost the growth of e retailing business.
